all the things you want all the things you need you got the power to choose you got the right to be all the things you loathe all the things you hate is what you will become until you will go straight all the things denied the shit you can't believe you don't blame your self you blame society all the things in life that you've been waiting for wait outside your door all your problems won't go away i guess this is the price you pay your decisions you will soon regret throw away your life go straight ahead i see you everyday wasting your time away you got no respect got nothing good to say all the things you loathe all the things you hate see what you will become unless you will go straight all the things in life all that you wanna be but you don't even try you want it all for free all the things in life that you've been waiting for wait outside your door
