You never listen, you never know
Never the leader, you always follow
'Cause it's you doing, it you say that it's alright
To yourself you're lying, I didn't wanna see you dying

Before you know it you're all alone
Your can is empty, you feel such sorrow
You think that using, all your best friends is alright
To yourself you're lyin', can't you see it? Can't you feel that?

Your vices are ruining your life, and on and on
Your vices are ruining your life, your mind
Your vices are ruining your life
Why can't you stop that vice from ending your life

You're always missing, you're always slow
Used to be so deep, now you're so shallow
Another friend out there, no, I don't think it's right
Your soul is frying, can't you hear your mother crying?

Take your medicine through your nose
Fine today but what about tomorrow
Say it does not control you but think I might You've hit rock bottom, can't you see it? Can't you feel that?

Your vices are ruining your life, and on and on
Your vices are ruining your life, your mind
Your vices are ruining your life
Why can't you stop that vice from ending your life

You're telling lies and for help, you are crying
I keep on knocking but there's nobody home
You're telling lies, living high, now you're dying
If you want somebody's help, why don't you answer the door?

You're telling lies and for help, you are crying
You know, I keep on knocking but there's nobody home
You're telling lies, living high, now you're dying
If you want somebody's help, why don't you answer the door?
