Oh, priestess of my dreams,
when under the April moon you appeared Stealing my soul and my thoughts,
I could have loved to taste your lips

Oh, priestess of my dreams
Ho, this dark mysterious voice is coming out of the night to me My soul's trembling from flurry and desire attempting to find happiness

I felt this mighty love which from the earth up to the sky Was breaking the chains of the unhappys, through time and space

The light on your sweet face, lightened your heavenly eyes That through fine tears attest the purity of my message

The light wind in your hair makes it dances in this divine melody Which is singing in my ear to embrace you,
to deliver you
To embrace you, to deliver you, the wind is dancing in my brain It's singing in my ear, to embrace you,
to deliver you
