

101 Strings

"The Companionless And The Contortionist"

Visit "The Companionless And The Contortionist" on MotoLyrics.com

I gave you everything, but still I lay here alone.
I can't bear the thought of how with me you gave up hope.

I loved you from the moment I looked into your eyes.
They once showed warmth, but they reflect happiness
no more.
The only show scorn!

I can still taste your lips on mine...
I remember how it seemed as though they've been
brushed with...
Poison, for every time we touched I...
Found it harder and harder to breathe.
You steal the breath from me!

I would have given anything!
I would have given anything!

When you told me, "we'll be together forever"; I believed every word.
But those meaningless phrases were simply words.

After everything you said to me...
How could you turn your back and walk away?
If you could only feel my pain...

I can still taste your lips on mine...
I remember how it seemed as though they've been
brushed with...
Poison, for every time we touched I...
Found it harder and harder to breathe.
You steal the breath from me!

I would have given anything!

Visit 101 Strings page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.