The bells are ringin?, for me an? my gal,The birds are singin? for me an? my gal,Everybody?s been knowin?, to a weddin? they?re goin?An? for weeks they?ve been sewin? every susie and sal? . . .They?re congregatin? (ding, dong, ding, dong,)For me an? my gal (ding, dong, ding, dong,)The parson?s waitin? (ding, dong, ding, dong,)For me and my gal (ding, dong, ding, dong,)An? someday I?m gonna build a little home for two,Or three or four, or more,In loveland, for me an? my gal . . .See the relatives there, lookin? over the pair,They can tell at a glance, it?s a loving romance,It?s a wonderful sight, as the families unite,See it makes the boy proud, as he says to the crowd . . .The bells are ringin?, for me an? my gal,The birds are singin? for me an? my gal,Everyone?s been knowin? (all our friends and our relations!)To a weddin? they?re goin? (will be at the railroad station!)An? for weeks they?ve been sewin? (or, they?ll send congratulations!)Every susie and sal? (. . . for me an? my gal!)They?re congregatin? for me an? my gal,The parson?s waitin? for me and my gal,An? someday I?m gonna build a little home for two,(or three or four,) or more, (or more!)In loveland! (loveland!)In loveland! (loveland!)In loveland, for me an? my gal!
