Weeping tree, shoulders to the sky
Never understood why
Weeping tree, should've let you go
How was I to know?

And if you find a clue
I hope you find it soon
Some people hold their breath forever
And if you find a house
Where you can live without the one you love
Weeping tree, fruitless, stands alone
Where lovers long dead used to go
Weeping tree, should've let you go
But how was I to know?

And if you find a clue
I hope you find it soon
Some people hold their breath forever
And if you find a house
Where you can live without the one you love
