lay down your face
the feigned caricature
train me in burning these contorted faces down
she screamed
here I am
and laughed in her costume
now
paint me a portrait
of protective mimicry

you didn't notice me at all
I had to change
to form myself
create a creature of
masquerade

like a body of clay that sways in revolutions worked by hands -
worked by hands
he screamed
I devote
and laughed uniformed
paint a portrait
of
another cheated clone

you didn't notice me at all
I had to change
to form myself
