The glint in your eyes
The warmth and the light
Is everything you love
Burning right before you

The warmth, the light
Is everything you love
Burning right before you

With your two black eyes
It's hard to see

You're just a ghost
You'll never haunt me
Always better than someone in the, someone in the room
And when you fade away (when you fade away)
You'll look back when there's nothing to look forward to

Never let your clothes speak louder than your voice now baby
If it's not who you know then it's what you are Maybe if you'd realize
Just open your eyes

You're no longer in my ear
Feeding me lies
I've got all the friends I need
They won't hear what you have to say

You're no longer in my ear
Feeding me lies
I've got all the friends I need
They won't hear what you have to say

With your crippled voice
It's hard to speak
With your two black eyes
It's hard to see

You're just a ghost
You'll never haunt me

Always better than someone in the, someone in the
And when you fade away (when you fade away)
You'll look back when there's nothing to look forward to

You're just a ghost
You'll never haunt me
Always better than someone in the, someone in the
And when you fade away (when you fade away)
You'll look back when there's nothing to look forward to

You're just a ghost
You'll never haunt me
Always better than someone in the, someone in the
And when you fade away (when you fade away)

You're just a ghost
And when you fade away (when you fade away)

You'll look back when there's nothing to look forward to You'll look back when there's nothing to look forward

You're no longer in my ear
Feeding me lies
