When you flew out of the nest
You made a mistake, flew all the way back
When you got back to your den
One minute too late was already wrecked

It's a fraction of the hope
But it's hard to control
Get this straight

You can't, can't count on a second chance
The second chance will never be found
You can't, can't count on a second try
The second try will never come home

You stick to what you knew before
Don't know what you like, just made up your mind
The picture still hangs on the wall
From back in the day when you had it all

It's a fraction of the hope
But it's hard to control
Get this straight

You can't, can't count on a second chance
The second chance will never be found
You can't, can't count on a second try
The second try will never come home

You can't, can't count on a second chance
The second chance will never be found
You can't, can't count on a second try
The second try sets you to come down

It's a fraction of the hope
But it's hard to control
Get this straight

You can't, can't count on a second chance
The second chance will never be found
You can't, can't count on a second try
The second try will never come home

You can't, can't count on a second chance
The second chance will never be found
You can't, can't count on a second try
The second try sets you to come down
