This is a page of the story that we're left to write upon.
It's become our choice if we should tear out the one's that don't belong.

It seems like we're afraid to even begin, but I won't let this story go unread.

It seems like we're afraid to even begin, but I won't let this story go unread. So lets show the world what we can become if we take what we've seen and turn this all around.

So lets show the world what we can become if we take what we've seen.

But they thicken the plot for everyone to see that we feed off the lies, the hatred, and the greed. That we feed off the lies, the hatred, and the greed.

I never even thought of this happening. That we feed off lies, hatred, and greed.

But it's become an unfortunate reality, that we must live and die with because we can't justify the reasons... why we refuse to change ourselves, why we refuse to change ourselves.
