In a French cafÃ^, under the moonlight Feel like I'm living in a Truffaut film In a French cafÃ[^], under the moonlight And I can't walk away again

I spent a year or three or four astray But it still feels like yesterday How do you know when you've done the right thing Can you feel, with a heart of steel For all the miles that I've crawled this year I never expected to see you quite so clear Spent too many nights making my home at the bar But here we are

Still got that feeling, I swear it'll never end Dragging me down, down, down It's like a scene in a magazine Like a postcard from a town
