It has been so long, can't seem to let you go
I'm sure I never will be able to
I sit and watch these waters flow
Just like we used to do
I still can't figure why they took you from me
It was there before, you were mine
Searching this river for you one more time

Time passes by, just like these ties that keep Bringing these memories to me
And that is all there'll ever be

And now I know it's been to long
And I have to carry on
But there was still so much for me to live with you

It was there before, you were mine
Searching this river for you one more time

It was there before, you were mine
Searching this river for you one more time

It was there before, you were mine
Searching this river for you one more time

It was there before, you were mine
Searching this river for you one more time
