You thought You could reach the sky
Never knew it was much too high
You believed that You could change
The world with love, yeah love, how strange

Every war that You fought was not in vain
If someone's set free
Every scar You've endured, every bit of pain
Has left its mark on me

Those You've touched can't stay the same
Now the angels say Your name

Every war that You fought was not in vain
If someone's set free
Every scar You've endured, every bit of pain
Has left its mark on me

Every war that You fought was not in vain
If someone's set free
Every scar You've endured, every bit of pain
Has left its mark on me, has left its mark on me
