

Count To Four "Plastic Dinosaurs"

I've spent enough time with you to know
Exactly how it's spent
And that's enough to figure out when

Does it scare you to think
That who you were means nothing?
That your foundation has been a waste
Is this really who you are today?
Have you looked at your path?
Have you decided to stay?

We're a civilized people
Draw a line in the sand
All your fighting back is feeble
Hold your heart in your hand
A falling picture on the ground
Line the halls with your stuff
Spray the gas, light the match
'Cause it's never enough
A bad nightmare
A lost cause
This is who I am today
Just press pause

(CHORUS)

And I have been here everyday
Thinking these thoughts I never say
Will you help me find a way
To place my past with me today?
These plastic dinosaurs mean nothing to you
They are everything to me
They're telling me the truth

I've spent enough time with you to know
Exactly how it's spent
And that's enough to figure out when

(Chorus)
