(David Crosby, Jeff Pevar and James Raymond)

[Intro. (Acoustic Guitars and Piano)]

You could have heard a pin drop in that house
Someone was crying somewhere
Into a pillow that it wasn't fair it got lost somewhere
You couldn't take your heart out in that house

It just might not want to beat again
A storm is pounding on the roof outside
Like something died
You couldn't take you heart out in that house

Water dripping in the sink
I'm tired of crying you start to think
The sound leads to the kitchen
The kitchen leads to the door
And you think that I must not live here anymore

[Instrumental (Electric Guitar + Piano)]

You couldn't take your heart out in that house

Water dripping in the sink
I'm tired of crying you start to think
The sound leads to the kitchen
The kitchen leads to the door
And you think that I must not live here anymore

Water dripping in the sink
I'm tired of crying you start to think
The sound leads to the kitchen
The kitchen leads to the door

Water dripping in the sink
I'm tired of crying you start to think
The sound leads to the kitchen
The kitchen leads to the door
And you think that I must not live here anymore

And then you walk
Walk on down to the street
Keep walking
You put one foot down in front of the other
One foot down in front of the other walking
You put one foot down in front of the other
Mmm ... one foot down in front of the other
One foot down
One foot down
One foot down
One foot down walking
One foot down in front of the other
One foot down in front of the other
One foot down in front of the other the other
One foot down in front of the other
Yeah, one foot down
