Look around and tell me what you see a place surrounded by the hate That hides in the shadows inside of you, inside of me What can we ever hope to see if we're not looking Don't you want to find your own way home again
Just leave your hate behind

When will you learn to just be you, find your own way?
When will you learn to follow through, make your own way?

Looking for something to believe I find the answer starts with me
Each time I follow inside of you, inside of me What can we ever hope to be if we're not trying
Don't you want to find your own way home again
Just leave your hate behind

When will you learn to just be you, find your own way?
When will you learn to follow through, make your own
way?
When will you learn to just be you, find your own way?
When will you learn to follow through, make your own
way?

Find another way to get inside me, find another way to get inside me
Find another way to get inside me, find yourself
Find another way to get inside me, find another way to get inside me
Find another way to get inside me, find yourself
Don't you want to find your own way home again
Just leave your hate behind

When will you learn to just be you, find your own way
When will you learn to follow through, make your own
way
When will you learn to just be you, find your own way
When will you learn to follow through, make your own
way
Make your own way make your own way
Make your own way make your own way
