It's been awhile and so much has happened. the family has grown, a chapter's been added. and here we are, it's so great to see. we're on another mission, you and me. still after all of the craziness we've seen. still here we are trying to realize our dreams. we start up again and we'll just keep moving on. here we go again, let's sing along. we got through some bullshit and took care of business. we worked through some problems and stripped off the excess. and here we are and we're standing face to face at the starting line of this new fucking race. still after all of the craziness we've seen. still here we are trying to realize our dreams. we start up again and we'll just keep moving on. here we go again, let's sing along. here we go, here we go kids, time to help us sing along? here we go, here we go kids, can you make it loud and strong?
