It's a struggle to live in grief, it hurts so deep
I won't forget you, may you rest in peace
Things we took for granted one day, may soon be gone
Pain that burns inside of me, just won't go away
So many memories of good old days, will always remain
But who will give me the answers I need
How to heal the pain that I feel
So many questions I never got to ask
Just proves nothing good will last
I hate to admit it seemed to be your turn
A lot of times I hate this world
I keep searching for a place called home
I can't stop; I've got to move on
I'm still searching for a place called home
I must be strong and carry on
You're now in a better place
Wait and we'll meet again
So many things were left unsaid
I think of you and take a deep breath
I keep explaining to myself
Like this was meant to be
I can't stand the thought of you being dead
Gone for good, taken away from me
I'm searching for a place called home
I can't stop: I've got to move on
I keep searching
I must be strong and carry on
I'm bleeding, burning, crumbling
I can't go back, can't give up, won't forget
I keep explaining to myself like this was meant to be Like it was some sort of destiny
I can't stand the thought of you being dead
Gone for good, taken away from me
