"No More You"

Rolling over morning appears
On an empty bed covered in tears
The scent of someone in the distance so strong
A life with no one, why carry on?
Standing in a line all alone
People around loving someone back home
The scent of a distant future caught in the past
The smiles of a clown fading so fast

But how can I still pull through
When all I have left is no more you
And how could this love be true
When all I have left is no more you

Now at home I open the door
The comfort of you I find no more
The arms of loneliness I feel all round
And I seek comfort on the ground
Standing in this room all alone

Memories around of a once loving home
Tears of laughter tears of pain
There's no more you again and again
