If you're just staring at your walls
Observing echoing footfalls
From tenants wandering distant halls
Then this one is for you

If children playing all around
To you is noise, not pleasant sound
And you'd be lost on the playground
Then this one is for you

All alone, the life you lead
A silent diner, where you feed
Bow your head pretend to read
Then this one is for you

Slip past strangers in the street
There's no one that you care to meet
Longing for your TV seat
This one is for you

If you're just staring at your walls
If you're just staring at your walls
Then this one is for you

If you're just staring at your walls
If you're just staring at your walls
Then this one is for you

This one is for you, this one is for you
This one is for you, this one is for you
This one is for you
