"Discern"

The sound of flying swiftly, which makes it hard to find Pathway through the darkness, every time I fall behind
I think I hear a whisper, around nearly every turn But what the voice is saying, I barely can discern The echoes that are following the contours of the ground
Ebb and flow and eddies in, a title wave of sound
And through the mist I think I see your face and try to learn
The meanings of expressions, I barely can discern And through the mist I think I see your face and try to learn
The meaning of expressions I barely can discern The echoes that are following the contours of the
Evan flow and at lease in, a title wave of sound
And through the mist, I think I see your face and try to learn
The meaning the of expressions I barely can discern
