in the basement once again, its to the depths, i hope i find a rope looking up the basement window, watching all the shadows, and the snow hoping that this windy city keeps debris from blanketing my show the stations there upon the chair, i watch his boxes turn from grey to green the sound of sirens disappears as i turn down the sound on my t.v.

if you got a question please direct it to the number on your screen

hell comes to receive me now signals retrieve me now onto the screen right now help me to see in the car the engine starts to charge imparts a feeling onto me in my mind i think its time to let this thing unfold or let it be hoping that this memory is more about the future i can see
