When once we lived the juicy life the summer baked
the autumn fades
you pirate you
to steal away with me

I remember well you're drunk again
sweet heart you'll say careful there, wipe off your sleeve don't go searching very hard for your other half in me

I recall your first kisses hiding in the closet from your mrs.

the stern old sage and sensible is what you see by day the darkness made you cautious too but I stopped by anyway now you're getting hazy falling far into a film I guess I'd better move along leave you to your private realm

predawn imagination is all that this is
