Those guys said they could come and take you away!
Erase you out of my mind steal you out of my heart
What a mess this world must be in
When they think this for real
While the day this world crashes down is so near

Here am I pushing my nose up high
Like an antenna it points to the sky
Hoping Iâ€™m ready for your lightning to strike me
At the day you come to take me home

All those people chasing wisdom all of their lives
How come they still move
Within the borders of their minds
While the world outside of time and space
Is almost ready to switch off the light in this place
