Words and Music by Gillian Welch and David Rawlings

Well the skys turned pink on the eastern edges
Night is cold and still
I don't know if it's the sunrise warming the desert
Or the lights of Tucson from over the hill
Well it's a hard way to love you this long distance romance
All the stopping and starting again
Well I don't mind the miles when Im out on the highway
Even when Im with you the miles just don't end
And Im two days from knowing
Weather I can be strong
If I spend one more night in your arms
Got a mind to keep going
And drive right past your door
But Im two days from knowing for sure
As the night closes down it fills the horizon
And stretches it out at the seams
I don't know if tomorrow I'll be any closer
To closing the distance between you and me
But Im two days from knowing
Weather I can be strong
If I spend one more night in your arms
Got a mind to keep going
And drive right past your door
But Im two days from knowing for sure
Got a mind to keep going
And drive right past your door
But Im two days from knowing for sure
