It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
Come on raise your head [x5]

Come on raise your head everybody makes mistakes
Everyone is waiting patiently for someone to be there
And you need to get away from the suffering
And you need to get a helping hand

It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
Come on raise your head [x5]

Come on raise your head everyone who can't understand
Everyone who don't need a hand, every man without a friend
And to all of you who go through suffering
Without a helping hand to guide your way

It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better

It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
It's such a fine line make it or break it
And all you really want is life to get better
Come on raise your head [x16]
