I would give the world to get an answer
I would give the world to catch your eyes
But like all the other lonely nights
Waiting for an ocean breeze to ease my heavy heart
Then I manage to go

I die for you till the morning comes
I cry for you till the morning comes
The night with you till the morning comes
With you, with you, with you, with you
With you

I spread my wings I take you away
On a journey of thousand and thousand mistakes
Show you that I am on your side
And when you see me coming dressed in white
Fire in my eyes ready for a night with you
My love, my love, my love, my love

I die for you till the morning comes
I cry for you till the morning comes
Then I'm with you till the morning comes
With you, with you, with you, with you

I die for you till the morning comes
I cry for you till the morning comes
The night with you till the morning comes
With you, with you, with you, with you
With you

I die for you till the morning comes
I cry for you till the morning comes
The night with you till the morning comes
With you, with you, with you, with you
I die for you
I cry for you
The night with you
Oh, my love, my love
