There used to be a lot of things
That I didn't know
And although they still exist
I try not to let them show

But I think that now you've seen me
For my true colors
I'm sure you recognize
I'm more stupid than the others

But I love you and I love you
And I will love you till the day I die
There will never be a time
When we have to say goodbye

I've seen you try to laugh
At all of my bad jokes
And I've cooked you seven meals
Six of them one on which you choked

But it has taken me a while
To get used to this new feeling
When I woke up with a smile
Oh, I nearly started screaming

That I love you and I love you
And I will love you till the day I die
There will never be a time
When we have to say goodbye

Because I love you and I love you
And I will love you till the day I die
There will never be a time
When we have to say goodbye

Never be a time
When we have to say goodbye
There will never be a time
When we have to say goodbye
Because I love you
