

Day To Resist "Burning Away"

A second time the wind whispers low
Once again it doesn't take a stand
A mass of clouds above and a long way down
Thousand thoughts nothing drowns them out

Foodless fear that I can't kill
Although there's nothing left to lose
Echoing screams from below
An empty world without the smile that used to soothe

Ref. I am slowly burning away only one step forth or back

The black concrete down on the ground
It's waiting there for my fall
With closed eyes I see the fact,
After this last step there's no coming back

The followed goals can not be reached
The suffer will be just transfered
This step wont forge me ahead it takes away my Only chance
