The blood starts to pour.
Black roses blossom.
Death is near for us all, so pray for forgiveness.
Look in the mirror, I only see shadows. Is this real?

It will soon be over,
covered in blood I reach for the sky.
Darkness takes over,
the dead starts to walk,
pain will not cease,
I wish for a noose to end my misery.

Like roses we blossom.
Born from ashes we seek our revenge, then cease to exist.
You left me here to die but still here I am, crying for mercy.

Body's falling by every tear,
every tear you bring down,
your heartbeats banging inside my head,
pain will not cease, I wish for a noose to end my misery.

Like roses we blossom.
Born from ashes we seek our revenge, then cease to exist.
You left me here to die but still here I am, crying for mercy.

We grow and blossom from dirt and seed,
as we face our end we bleed.

Like roses we blossom.
Born from ashes we seek our revenge, then cease to exist.
You left me here to die but still here I am, crying for mercy.
