I hear the call, I feel the breeze.
That says that this storm will eventually cease.
Cause I am fed up. Can't take this no more.
Don't dig yourself deeper, cause you would deplore.

Draining all my veins, injecting me with guilt.
I have come too far to watch you break what I have built.
All that's left to find, buried in my mind.
This is our war, the end of all mankind.

This is the settlement,
but you won't hear me shout.
You can beat me dead,
you can turn me inside out.

The time of misery is here, Obliterate.
Forget what you one time held dear, Obliterate.

We are the choices left to make.
We are the bones no one could break.
We are just shades in mellow light.
We are the ghosts that haunt by night.

Grab what you find, follow my lead.
Tonight is the end and the weakest will bleed.
You've crossed all the lines, so I'll say this once more.
Don't dig yourself deeper, cause you would deplore.

Bless this night with rage and violence,
and rip me apart with your words of silence.
Etch it to my soul, at this very set.
Keep it a memory, lest we forget.

I will never bow. I will never kneel, never moan. I will never fucking die
