"Forget Everything"

Since I know the truth
I wish you'd have lied to me

I remember cold nights
And tears I felt would never dry

How you shattered my world
With your last goodbye

These walls I created to ease the pain

On the outside I'm trying - but inside I am dying
I might be broken but I will rise again

Broken - I will rise again

And I just hope one day you will feel
What you made me go through

I've been there before
So welcome me with open arms

Soon the rain will stop from falling
And I will forget the past

Then you are nothing
More than a waste of time

Then I fucking drop you
