

Dearly Departed

"Dragging The Lake"

Visit "Dragging The Lake" on MotoLyrics.com

You're too late coming after me, now you'll have to follow
You're too late coming after me, what I've found
You're running too late, I've fallen off the rails
You're running too late, what have you found?
I don't have a thirst for your life, it's only when I hear the voices in my head
I didn't have a thirst for their lives; I only had to clear the voices in my head
You're too late coming after me, chasing a shadow
You're too late coming after me, what I've found
You're running too late, I've fallen off the rails
You're running too late, what have you found? Have you found?
Dawn will break, before your eyes match up with mine
Don't match your eyes up with mine
I don't have a thirst for your life, it's only when i hear the voices in my head
I didn't have a thirst for their lives; I only had to clear the voices in my head, in my head
Dawn will break, before your eyes match up with mine
Don't match your eyes up with mine
You're too late coming after me, now you'll have to follow
You're too late coming after me, you're too late
Do you really wanna look inside?
Dawn will break, before your eyes match up with mine
Don't match your eyes up with mine

Visit Dearly Departed page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.