

Allison Crowe "Philosophy"

Visit "Philosophy" on MotoLyrics.com

Rain has always fallen silently in my mind
And it's built up so high that I'll drown in my own faults
And when I stop breathing maybe I'll be taken to a place
Where I can be of some use
Now tell me baby, is this not like me

I can't be here now and I don't want your eyes reaching mine
I don't understand why all you had you had to leave behind

I can't stay here now
And I wish my plans were only residential
So I will tell you now that baby I am not unique

So I will empty my veins so my blood can no longer run cold
And my voice will cease shrieking so you can't disagree

I will try to fly
And if I don't make it at least I'll know that I Didn't have to watch myself fail again
Well I have got to go

I can walk into the sea
And open my eyes so I can't see
And I can feel you rush in to me
And I am drowning

And I am free

Visit Allison Crowe page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.