Running down a street I knew
The one that led, led me to you
And all you stood for
Like meeting me on a path I knew
Would nearly break, break me in two
I'm fine, how are you?

And I'm doing this on my own
And I believe I'm resilient
I'd like to think someone brilliant
At least I know how to operate
And I believe there was passion
Now regret all that happened
Between you and me

Here on the west coast I have found
There's no escape, escaping you
And all you do
I'm begging for recovery
From the dam, damage you did
To my, my brain

And I'm doing this alone
