well there's something going on here in the zone today what's happening to the barrier it's fading away and artemis is missing and the night is growing cool and there where he was standin's just a little pink pool and he's simply left us on our own left us stranded in the wilderness and took away the zone
no we won't need him anymore
he left a basket at the orphanage
the baby's at the door
the baby's at the door
well we all should have realized utopia can't last we should have learned a bitter lesson from the past and as I look out on the ruins we defend I can't help thinking that someday he'll come again
the baby's at the door
