There's something wrong something so very wrong that's all that I know Sitting up all night yeah I'm up all night where did my composure go Everything is racing
Try to understand this What have I started?
My passion takes advantage
On and on and on again, Underrated.
How could I have been so blind?
I've missed the signs so many many times took it all for granted yet another mistake that I can't retake,
blew all of my chances I'm only dreaming my heart keeps scheming but I could never notice, Notice that she's something, she's something, she's something, she's something underrated I've figured it out yeah I've figured it out there's nothing I can do.
'cause it's too late oh it's too late at least I know she's something She's something, she's something, she's something underrated
How could I have been so blind?
