"On Second Thought"

I still can smell you on my clothes I taste you on my lips like candy why haven't I confronted you about this like fairytales, the handsome prince will get you

I want you here next to me so we could talk on second thought I might be wrong
to even want

I see you in my dreams its so real I hear you call my name when you're gone
why haven't I confronted you about this
like fairytales, the handsome prince will get you

I want you here next to me
so we could talk
on second thought I might be wrong
to even want

I feel that you're impossible to catch but if I just stand here I will never know when I see you I will tell you that you belong in my arms

I want you here next to me
so we could talk
on second thought I might be wrong to even want

on second thought I might be wrong
