I buried you,
I left you deep inside the ground.
I couldn't find my way
From where I was at.
Wanderin' my way downtown,
And wanderin' my way back.

I don't even know you anyway,
And I don't even hear from you, anymore.

I wait alone,
Locked in my own factory.
My spirit moves it's way over the sea.
I gave away my heart,
I sent out all of me, but ravens still devoured
everything.

I don't even know you anyway,
And I don't even hear from you, anymore.
And I asked them if you were still near
But they just shrugged and told me,
You disappeared.

Come back to me, baby.
Default to me, honey, yeah.
Lie to me, child.
I have to go now,
I have to go now...
For a while.
