it's late at night
and all i can think about
is how i went to work
and just sat around
and wasted my whole day time goes by
and soon we forget about the way we looked
the dumb things that mattered
as our lives just slipped away

i mope around
like there's nothing to do
another day
and i'm looking for something new i can't understand why i'm feeling this way memories come but they just fade away
