"The Legend Of Pegleg Sullivan"

1871 was the year underneath an October sky
When a windy city man had set out with a plan to set a fire but nobody knows why So Pegleg headed out back with a match and a bucket of kerosene Little did he know that the wind would blow through the streets with anarchy

Pegleg didn't have an alibi
He didn't have a story to tell
But he bought his one way ticket straight to hell
'cause he burned the whole damn city
Watched it all go down
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground yeah he burned that beautiful city
He torched that beautiful town
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground

Flames spread fast every night While they passed through the alleys and the dead end streets
From suburban doors to the lakefront shore demolishing everything
And pegleg never got blamed for the mess made
Said he never broke the law
But all that remained was the charred black stains Proving every things his fault

Pegleg didn't have an alibi
He didn't have a story to tell
But he bought his one way ticket straight to hell
'cause he burned the whole damn city
Watched it all go down
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground
yeah he burned that beautiful city
He torched that beautiful town
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground

Of all the books printed on history None raised the flag on one mans legacy Now everybody knows the truth of the stories being exposed

So Pegleg's going down in infamy.

'cause he burned the whole damn city
Watched it all go down
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground
yeah he burned that beautiful city
He torched that beautiful town
Yeah he burned all of Chicago to the ground
