Once a happy family, but that was long ago
A little boy lost in the battle, 'cause he's got nowhere else to go
Then there came that dreadful day, when he heard daddy slam the door His mother came into his room, and said, "son we're not in love anymore"
And then he cried silently, "why did he have to leave, why did this happen to me?"

who will pick me up and hold me close and heal this heart of mine
Love me like a father should, remove my pain inside
I can't so this on my own, I need a father in my life

She was only sixteen, when she lost her purity He told her that he loved her, that they were always meant to be His selfish love began to fade, and then he broke her heart in two He looked directly in her eyes, and asked, "Did you really think I loved you?" Then as she fell on her knees, she began to weep, "Is something wrong with me?"

who will pick me up and hold me close and heal this
heart of mine
Overwhelm with their love, remove my pain inside
I'm in need of rescuing; I need a hero in my life

I will pick you up and hold you close and heal your pain
inside
Love you like a father should, you are a child of mine

I will pick you up and hold you close and heal your pain
Overwhelm you with my love my affection so divine
