Hey, stop on a dime

Take both your hands

Reach them above, one at a time

Are you alone in here?

I heard the voice so clearly

I tried not to breathe

Tried not to speak

Clamping my tongue between my teeth

Are you alone in here?

I heard the voice so clearly say

Well, there are fine lines I've seen

We are stuck in between

With separate eyes to use and throw aside

How we die, nobody wants to know

Who decides where everybody goes?

Where everybody goes?

Well, no, this can't be it

I start to sweat

Haunted by all the things I'd miss

This can't be right

I realized right then, that

It's me or him, yeah

There are fine lines I've seen

We are stuck in between

With separate eyes to use and throw aside

How we die, nobody has to know

Who decides where everybody goes?

What if I don't?

Oh, no, I can't believe this

I don't know why

This had to happen

I had no choice

Well, it was me or him

Well, it was me or him

There's a fine line

Between what is justified or just obscene

Fragile eyes to use and throw aside

How we die, nobody wants to know

Who decides where everybody goes?

Where everybody goes?

How we died, no one will ever know

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?

Who decides where everybody goes?
