Tell me all about your own dreams.
They'd been flying away somehow.
Cruel intentions forcing you
To change your face and thousands more.

There's a time to fear,
There's a time to heal,
There's a time to forget all your dreams,
There's a fool who waits on the sacred gate
Leading all our memories astray.

Why did we fall down from our grace?
Another illusion fades away.
Why do we fool ourselves with liberty?
We're fallen once again.

Silent devotion,
Into circles full of lies.
A dream state in motion,
Have we already thrown the dice?
You can't deny the existence
Of a force that lies in hand.
A proof in persistence
Reveal your voice and resurrect your fate.

On and on we dare
To believe in our minds
We tear your thoughts apart
From the glare behind
The crimson eyes we hate.

We'll never fall down from our grace
Another confusion fades away
We won't fool ourselves with liberty
We won't fall again.

We'll never fall down from our grace
Another confusion fades away
We won't fool ourselves with liberty
We won't fall again.
