Lying awake at night, I'm staring at the ceiling.
Nobody at my door, but I sense something more.
Impatience fills my mind, it's getting hard to try.
But I'm still by myself and I need someone's help...

Can't look for happily ever after when we all need
something real,
Just roll the dice and don't look twice 'cause that's not
how we feel.
Got lost in the aftermath, but what happened first
wasn't all that bad.
No one says we have to beg and steal.

Life flying by so fast, blurred faces of the people I know quickly rushing by.
When it's all said and done, when we've all had our fun, will we know who has won?

Can't look for happily ever after when we all need
something real,
Just roll the dice and don't look twice 'cause that's not
how we feel.
Got lost in the aftermath, but what happened first
wasn't all that bad.
No one says we have to beg and steal.

And there's nothing I want more than to be completely sure
I've got the answers I need, nothing else I can see.
And a thought, it comes to mind, maybe I'm just almost blinded by the situation,
Nothing else that's left to say but...

Can't look for happily ever after when we all need
something real,
Just roll the dice and don't look twice 'cause that's not
how we feel.
Got lost in the aftermath, but what happened first
wasn't all that bad.
No one says we have to beg and steal.
