Time will cast your fears into these dreams

Take a sip from sin and taste the wine

He who bears the weight from within and it seem

Fractured paint bleeds slow then steals you life

Lies, in the name of the father

Cries, in the name of the mother

Rise, in the name of my brother

Someone explain it

Justify to me, justify to me

Who cast the stone that sets the wheel in ease

The feel of grease spins round without a page

A break to show us where to follow

Fate and ashes trace our sorrow

To each and every fall begins new day

Whos pushing up daisies

Lies, in the name of the father

Cries, in the name of the mother

Rise, in the name of my brother

Someone explain it

Justify to me, justify to me

You tore them away from our life

You took the best before their time

Someone explain it, whos pushing up daisies

Justify to me, justify to me

You took the best before their time

Someone explain it, whos pushing up daisies

Justify to me, justify to me
