Is it so much to ask for this to be simple
Is it too much to ask for you to care Is it this damn hard for us to be civil When all of the bruises are still there

We've both been lied to a thousand times by a million strangers, passing by Who spoke of love that never came When all I wanted was just to keep you and make you happy all the time
I guess you could say that I lost your game

'Cause it's cold in late december when you've Lost your love and you can't remember what it feels like to smile when you awake Mornings drag on forever when you wake up and it's late december
Everyone knows the feeling of heartbreak, but it's just too much to take Right now it's just too much to take

It only hurts when I'm awake

Is this how it feels to lose your best friend
Is this how it feels to be alone

All the lights are on, and I can hear your voice
But it's a lie 'cause you're never home

'Cause it's cold in late december when you've Lost your love and you can't remember what it feels
like to smile when you awake
Mornings drag on forever when you wake up and it's
late december
Everyone knows the feeling of heartbreak

Baby I'm just about to break

It still hurts when I'm awake

It just hurts when I'm awake
