What is this mass confusion, this crazy way we're living
This emptiness we're passing out
Like candycoatedwaterdrops
Spilling out my thoughts, spilling out your guts

And I can't help but stop and think that

If the world stopped spinning
If the end was beginning
Would you even notice if I wasn't there?
If the world stopped spinning around

All that's worth dying for is already dead
An empty religion you've learned to accept
When nothing means everything, your daily routine
You go through the motions like a helpless machine

Well, if the world stopped spinning
If the end is beginning
Would you even notice if I wasn't there?
If the world stopped spinning around

You're spinning ?round
You're spinning ?round
But I can?t help wondering

You're spinning ?round
You're spinning ?round
But I can?t help wondering

When the answers to everything are right in your hands
You lose your conviction but you can't help standing
On the one thing held you for so many years
You ask for forgiveness and hold back the tears

And I can't help but stop and think that

If the world stopped spinning
If the end is beginning
Would you even notice if I wasn't there?
If the world stopped spinning around

If the world stopped spinning
If the end is beginning
Would you even notice if I wasn't there?
If the world stopped spinning around

You're spinning 'round
You're spinning 'round
But I can't help wondering

You're spinning 'round
Spinning 'round
But I can't help wondering
But I can't help wondering
