I think about you often
But I don't know what to do
'Cause I don't have the courage
Or I don't have the strength to make it up to you
It's a solitary part I'm playing
Born an actor
But what a foolish line I am so fond of saying:
"I've no regrets"
If I could do anything again, anything at all
I would never let time take you so far away

I've got a picture of you in '62
With a baby on your knee
The faces are familiar-they remind me of my loss
I am a refugee
Now everybody listens to me
I keep waiting for the day when they'll all see right through me
And my "no regrets"
But if I could be anyone again, anywhere at all
I would be that child in your arms

I got a woman who loves me
I got the pink slip for my car
I got a little place, the rent is cheap
I got a band who plays my songs
Life's not so hard
But in the rear-view mirror a bridge is burning
And now I've wasted another year
The hardest thing I'm learning about my regrets is Thought I cannot do anything again, anything at all
Today I could have, I should have made that call
I should have made that call
