What would you say if you knew what I was thinking?
Maybe you do but you know not to dig too deep
What if I knew what you needed for sure?
I've seen in your eyes you need more, much more

And I could be happy, and you could be miserable
I'll grab a metaphor out of the air
The Cuyahoga river on fire

What can you say, the impossible happens
What can you settle for?
What can you live without?
I remember the night I first darkened your door
And I swore that I loved you
My heart was pure

And you could be happy, and I could be miserable
I'll grab a metaphor out of the air
The Cuyahoga river on fire

My open window, a dream in the dark
My fingers, your face
A spark, a trace

I could be happy, and you could be miserable
I'll grab a metaphor out of the air
The Cuyahoga river on fire

I know a lot about the history of Cleveland, Ohio
Disasters that have happened there
Like the Cuyahoga river on fire
